A MESSAGE FROM ED BOLEN

Dear Member,

Congratulations on your Flying Safety Award, NBAA's annual recognition of those companies and individuals demonstrating outstanding safety achievement in the areas of flight, maintenance and support services.

Over the nearly five decades since this awards program was launched, our industry has compiled an exemplary safety record on par with that of the commercial airlines, thanks to the efforts of individuals and companies like yours. By following safety best practices and demonstrating accident-free operations, you have proven your company to be a safety leader.

To help maintain our industry's superior record, NBAA continues to stress business aviation safety year-round by providing operational resources and promoting safety-focused events at the national and regional levels.

For example, the Association advocates that flight departments of all sizes implement a safety management system (SMS) for aircraft operations, and provides many resources for accomplishing this. The International Standard for Business Aircraft Operation (IS-BAO) – developed by the International Business Aviation Council (IBAC) and its member associations like NBAA – is a code of best practices designed to help flight departments worldwide achieve high levels of safety and professionalism. At the core of the IS-BAO is a scalable SMS tool for business aircraft operators, from single-aircraft/single-pilot operations to large multi-aircraft flight departments.

NBAA periodically hosts workshops across the country to help business aircraft operators understand the SMS concept and adopt it to proactively identify and manage risks in their flight operations. Two additional resources to assist operators with implementation are an SMS toolkit and an e-learning course.

Further, NBAA partners with Flight Safety Foundation every spring to cohost the Corporate Aviation Safety Seminar, a three-day forum where operators meet with industry leaders, government officials and university researchers for a comprehensive review of business aviation safety issues.

The Association also continues to be a proud cosponsor of Bombardier's Safety Standdown event both here and abroad, which promotes knowledge-based training along with personal discipline and responsibility as essential elements of aviation professionalism and safety. Now in its fifteenth year, the seminar has evolved from a department training day for eight pilots to a four-day event for as many as 500 attendees.

The safety day concept is increasingly being adopted by regional business aviation groups across the country to provide the same caliber of training to professionals at a local level. NBAA actively supports regional groups in holding safety seminars in their local communities, by helping to promote such events and coordinate speakers for them. We encourage you to learn more, contact your NBAA regional representative and get involved by visiting www.nbaa.org/regional.

Thank you for being an industry role model and helping to make business aviation one of the safest ways to travel. Tell us how NBAA can continue to support you in achieving safe operations by sending your feedback to info@nbaa.org.

Sincerely,

AWARDS PROGRAM HISTORY

The National Business Aviation Association (NBAA) Flying Safety Awards Program was established in 1953 by the NBAA Board of Directors, which is directly responsible for the rules of the awards program, including the various award levels.

The original NBAA Flying Safety Award rewarded safe flying on the basis of miles flown, and was referred to as the "Million Miler Award." As business jet aircraft became prevalent, however, it became apparent that turboprop and piston-powered aircraft crews spent much longer periods of time accumulating award levels in what could be argued as less hospitable altitudes. The eventual resolution of this problem was to restructure the awards program to base the Flying Safety Awards on flight hours flown over a specific number of years. The number of years varies according to the award type in order to provide continual incentive.

The Flying Safety Awards are more than a Member service; they provide Member Companies with well-earned recognition for exceptional achievement in maintaining safe flying operations. They also are testimony to the high degree of professionalism inherent in business aircraft operations and pay tribute to the skill, ability and dedication of management, maintenance, support service and pilot teams. In addition, the NBAA Flying Safety Awards have brought worldwide recognition to the excellent safety record of business aviation.

With this annual publication, NBAA recognizes the extraordinary business flying safety records compiled by NBAA Member Companies and their pilot, maintenance and support personnel. Safe Flying Achievement Award recipients also are recognized during an awards presentation at the NBAA Annual Meeting & Convention.

For more information about the Flying Safety Awards Program, contact NBAA at (800) FYI-NBAA or info@nbaa.org, or visit www.nbaa.org/awards.

2011 SAFE FLYING ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

In 2011, NBAA commends six companies for receiving 50- and 60-Year Safe Flying Achievement Awards. Two Members have reached the safety milestone of flying 60 years or more without an accident – 3M Company and Idaho Power Co. – and the following four companies have reached the safety milestone of flying 50 years or more without an accident: Archer Daniels Midland Co., The Coca-Cola Co., Dot Foods, Inc. and The Dow Chemical Company.

Below is a complete list of all 75 companies that have received NBAA Safe Flying Achievement Awards since the founding of this award category in 1998. All of the companies listed below have documented at least 50 years of safe flying. Those that have received NBAA's 60 Year Safe Flying Achievement Award are marked with an asterisk, and those that have received the 75 Year Safe Flying Achievement Award are marked with a caret (^).

NBAA SAFETY RESOURCES FOR MEMBERS

» DID YOU KNOW?

NBAA and its Member Companies are committed to making business aviation as safe as possible, as evidenced by the long list of 2011 NBAA Flying Safety Awards winners.

The Association offers a wide range of resources to help promote a culture of safety in business aviation operations, including but not limited to:

- Safety Management System (SMS) Resources. NBAA advocates that flight departments of all sizes implement a safety management system (SMS) for aircraft operations. Through the use of SMS, business aircraft operators can proactively identify and manage risks. NBAA offerings in support of SMS implementation include the International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations (IS-BAO) Manual, which includes a copy of an SMS Toolkit, and an SMS e-Learning Course.
www.nbaa.org/sms
- NBAA Prototypical Safety Manual. This manual was created to assist the Membership in developing or refining a formal safety program. Both flight and ground safety programs necessary to reduce risk in a business aviation organization are identified. These programs are prototypes only and each organization should tailor its own safety program to its own specific needs.
www.nbaa.org/sms
- Safety Standdown. NBAA partners with the FAA and NTSB to co-host the annual Bombardier Safety Standdown, a multi-day event focused on improving business aviation safety. The Safety Standdown brings aircraft operators together with safety experts in the industry and government for a series of education sessions that integrate knowledge-based training with skill-based training.
www.nbaa.org/safety-standdown
- Single-Pilot Safety Standdown. In partnership with Cessna, NBAA offers the Single-Pilot Safety Standdown to promote high standards of safety for single pilots. Held in conjunction with the NBAA Annual Meeting & Convention, the event features an entire day of safety programming for owner/operators and single pilots, including sessions on professional airmanship, single-pilot resource management, icing, aviation health and fatigue countermeasures.
www.nbaa.org/events/amc
- Corporate Aviation Safety Seminar (CASS). This seminar provides a forum for discussion and review of safety matters that are the focus of the business aviation community. Co-sponsored by the Flight Safety Foundation (FSF) and NBAA, CASS draws more than 400 Attendees and features aviation industry leaders, government representatives and university researchers.
